The Spirit Within, 2003
wooden stool and wire
7 x 8 inches

My sculpture is about how everything has a soul. The tree that made this stool once had a living soul. It used to know what was around it. It had wisdom. It once knew what it was to live, now it knows nothing but death. All of that life was taken just to make this little stool. Even though the tree is dead, the soul inside is very much alive. Everything has a soul. Don't destroy everything, or there will be nothing left.
