My life is like that of a tree
As with trees, I come from the ground
Sweet transparent water feeds my growth
The sun with its richness feeds my body
I miss the ground that witnessed my birth
I miss the plants and old trees
The love of those trees stays with me
Now I am big and I give thanks
Other trees ask me about that laud
I tell them of my memories
Where I come from will not be lost
Without my roots I would not survive.
