

Karen Ahaszuk (b. 1985)
Coronado High School

Free Spirit, 2003
colored pencil
48 x 24 inches

As hooves pound the desert floor,
I yearn for something more.
What's out there I wish I know.
This redundant life becomes my foe.
Tonight we gallop along the trail,
I know where it leads; I have to bail.
I'm a wild horse with power, light the fuse.
Ignite the freedom I'm meant to use!
Why would I waste this choice,
This chance to follow my voice?
I know what to do, made up my mind.
I'll take another path, how will it unwind?